

Interested in an internship at The Sports Philanthropy Project (SPP)?

What is Sports Philanthropy?

Sports philanthropy is the emerging sector within corporate philanthropy through which professional sports organizations forge partnerships and strategically invest in the health and well being of their communities by dedicating and leveraging both financial and in-kind resources to address local problems.

The Sports Philanthropy Project's Mission

The mission of the Sports Philanthropy Project (SPP) is to harness the power of sports to change lives and strengthen communities. Since 1998, SPP has led and supported the growing field of sports philanthropy, by helping sports foundations and their partners build comprehensive community programs, by providing strategic assistance and by facilitating ongoing forums which advance best practices in sports philanthropy.

Capitalizing on the tremendous resources and extraordinary power of sports teams and athletes, SPP strategically engages and supports sports organizations and athletes and their foundations in unique and powerful campaigns and community-building efforts.

Internship: The Sports Philanthropy Project is looking for enthusiastic, hard-working, dependable college students who want to gain real world sports business and corporate philanthropy experience. If you are interested in the internship below, please e-mail your cover letter and resume to:

The Sports Philanthropy Project
Attention: Alisha Greenberg
Director of Partnerships
agreenberg@sportsphilanthropy.com

Office Location: From home office

Workday: Flexible and independent work environment

Report to: Director of Partnerships

Responsibilities: Projects include website management and content updates, interacting with professional sports teams and athlete foundations via phone and in person, organizing and maintaining the marketing database and helping to strategize e-mail campaigns. General office and administrative support will also be needed.

Preferred Skills: Microsoft Office and HTML